Commercial development program (CDP)

Do you see yourself collaborating with our customers for a more sustainable future? Then join our 6-to-9-month Commercial Development Program (CDP) and become a Sales Specialist.

At the intersection of science and technology, you will experience an instant learning curve and build strong relationships with customers and colleagues across businesses.

Program details:

- Work on real-life Sales and Marketing projects as part of a Dow business segment
- Build technical knowledge of products and applications to become an effective technical sales representative
- Join instructor-led training sessions to advance your sales management and soft skills
- Receive tailor made guidance from a mentor

We are looking for:

- A master's degree graduate in chemistry, engineering, or business chemistry. An additional MBA or other business studies is a plus.
- Up to 3 years of experience in sales, technical service, marketing, or a related industry is an advantage
- Fluency in English and any other European languages
- Willingness to travel and flexibility to work extended hours at times
- A valid driver's license is a must
